batter chatter

By Mary Lynn Woods

"Breakfast's ready!" Doctors agree that breakfast is the most important meal of the day, especially in winter, so send your children off to school well fed. Orange juice, scrambled eggs and bacon but chocolate. And some of ... oa's home made muffins will keep them full of vim and vigour ... lunch time.

Are you a good muffin maker, or does your batch always turn out coarse and dry? The secret of muffin making is in the mixing. Mix just to an absolute minimum—a light stirring for 10 to 20 seconds and positively no longer. There will be lumps in the dough, but don't worry. If you beat the batter too long, the dough becomes tough, producing a coarse muffin full of tunnels. Bake for 20 minutes in a perforated oven at 400 F. Remember, too slow an oven will cause muffins to sink in the middle, too high will give them cracked, wobbly tops. Happy breakfasts!

Instant coffee is very useful as a flavouring. Blend a teaspoon of it into a pint of slightly softened vanilla ice cream, then refreeze. You now have delicious mocha ice cream ready to serve. If you add three tablespoons of instant coffee to the liquid ingredients when making a white cake, you will have the cake richly flavoured with the popular coffee taste.

Baking bread gives a feeling of joy and deep satisfaction to the truly creative cook. The feel of the springy, elastic dough beneath her fingers, the tempting aroma of a newly baked batch of golden crusted loaves—these are the pleasures reserved for the woman who bakes her own bread. And when she bakes, she knows she can rely on Fleischmann's Fast Rising Active Dry Yeast—the most favoured yeast for generations. Fleischmann's yeast stays fresh and active, gives the housewife who bakes successful results—every time. It's no wonder she wouldn't rely on anything else.

New Brazeau River Dam Source Of Alberta Power

Calgary Power's Big Bend Plant Set For Spring Operation

One of Canada's largest hydro units at Calgary Power's Big Bend station on the Brazeau River 90 miles southwest of Edmonton is now undergoing tests before being finally commissioned.

The turbo-generator rated at 210,000 h.p. is believed to be as large as any water-driven machine presently in operation in Canada to-day.

Its commissioning at this time is a significant testimonial to the triumph of men and machinery over the elements. Originally scheduled for late fall 1964 completion, construction difficulties on the canal dyke carrying water to the power house delayed scheduled operation.

Under ordinary weather conditions, final work on the earth-fill dyke would have been carried through as a routine matter. However, under the "deep snow" conditions prevailing this winter the placing of earth fill presented many problems.

The necessity of additional peaking and standby capacity over the winter months prompted the decision to proceed with placement of the final earthfill section in sub zero weather. This was accomplished by enclosing and heating a section of the dyke approximately 300 feet by 35 feet, driving 70' inter-locking sheet-piling and pouring a concrete to sheet-piling joint. Placement of the clay fill material was done by trucks onto the enclosed area and placing the material in the above freezing temperatures thereat.

NEW ERA OF GROWTH

by ROBERT TYRE
Editor

DRAYTON VALLEY, Alberta, can trace its origin back to the settlers who arrived soon after the turn of the century to make a living cutting timber for the sawmills in Edmonton.

But it was another natural resource discovered almost half a century later that illuminated the name of Drayton Valley on the map of Canada and launched this community into a new era of growth and prosperity.

The economic force that catapulted the once obscure little community into sudden prominence was the discovery on Drayton Valley's doorstep in June 1953 of Alberta's famed Pembina Oil Field. The discovery hit Drayton Valley's sleepy rural economy with the impact of a pile-driver and just four years later, on February 1, 1957, the settlement established by pioneer loggers was incorporated as a town.

With good reason, and officially, Drayton Valley has been christened "the Oil Capital of the World". Pembina is Canada's largest and most prolific oil field, and its more than 500 square miles makes it the world's largest oil field in area. Drayton Valley's fortuitous location in the Pembina field established it firmly as the trading centre and supply centre of the massive petroleum industry that came into existence to develop the field. Since the discovery well was brought in by Socony Vacuum Exploration Ltd., more than $700 million has been expended by oil companies in exploration and development work.

Drayton Valley's economic ties with the oil industry are quickly apparent to the eyes of a visitor to the town. The business community bears ample evidence of the town's proximity to oil. The story is also told in the Drayton Valley section of the Alberta telephone directory. About 60 firm names are listed who are associated with the oil business. Some as the branch operations of oil companies others dealing in oil field supplies of one kind or another, and those who serve the industry with technical and engineering assistance.

Oil production, however, is not Drayton Valley's only source of income. The town overlooking the North Saskatchewan River 87 miles southwest of Edmonton, is also the trading centre of a mixed farming area. Lumber camps and bush work constituted the main economic support of the hamlet until about 1945. Cleared timber areas opened the way to agricultural activity and gradually timber operations were superseded by farming as the main industry. And mixed farming remained the principal industry until oil was discovered in 1953.

Drayton Valley's modern, prospering, growing business area is a busy market place, supplying the needs of a town population of approximately 3,000 and a trading area population of about 20,000. Farm income and oil payroll keep the cash registers working briskly and the town's economy robust and expansive.

The oil payroll, in all operations of the Pembina field, amounts to a hefty $4 million annually. Drayton Valley has about 800 wage earners and a large percentage of these workers are employed in the oil industry or in enterprises associated with the industry. Another 500 or more oil field employees live outside Drayton Valley but do their trading in the town. The town itself is a major employer with a payroll in excess of $100,000.

The start of the oil boom in 1953 activated development trends which continue to be reflected in new housing, commercial and industrial construction. Permit values for the 12 months of 1963 were at the level of $822,000. During the first 10 months of 1964 the building total reached a plateau of $750,000. Commercial construction amounted to $100,000 and industrial building had the same value. A new subdivision filling up has a development value of $450,000.

New services and additions to existing commercial operations continue to generate growth in the business community. During the past year three automobile dealers opened or expanded business operations in the town. A photography and photographic supply shop is another recent business addition. Simpson-Sears opened a mail order office in August. A new Esso garage building was erected and a number of oil supply companies have expanded warehouse and office space. Proof of the business potential in Drayton Valley is the sales record chalked up by a McLeod Store which opened in December, 1962. Within four months it was the top McLeod dealer in Alberta and is still operating with a volume well above the average.

Town improvements are keeping up with commercial and residential growth. The 1964 program of capital spending will amount to about $370,000. Street paving will account for $170,000; water and sewer extensions, $90,000; a new sewage disposal plant, $41,000; curbs, gutters and sidewalks, $34,000, and a storm sewer project, $27,500.

High school and public school facilities were all new construction within the past 10 years. Accommodation for handicrafts and home economics is a well-equipped facility at the high school level. Provision for education is a priority concern of the town. It has to be. It has a school population of approximately 1,500, and with the predominance of youthful age groups the average age of the populace works out to about 11 years. This makes for a community that is both youthful as a municipal entity and blessed with a young population -- a high percentage of productive, wage-earning citizens and a large group training to enter production fields.

Recreational development has also received the attention of the town. One such project is the West Valley Park development where the town has spent about $30,000 on improvements. A variety of sports facilities are being provided at the park, including bowling, baseball and football. The Lions Club is participating in the work and cost of the development. Another amenity that has been operating for two seasons is the town's heated open swimming pool. The first year it was opened patronage totalled 42,000. Recreation in Drayton Valley gets excellent support from the town's very active service clubs, Elks, Rotary, Legion, and the Lions Club. Active in all areas of the town's community and business life is Drayton Valley's alert and aggressive Chamber of Commerce.

NEW ERA OF GROWTH

by
ROBERT TYRE

DRAYTON VALLEY, Alberta, can trace its origin back to the settlers who arrived soon after the turn of the century to make a living cutting timber for the sawmills in Edmonton.

But it was another natural resource discovered almost half a century later that illuminated the name of Drayton Valley on the map of Canada and launched this community into a new era of growth and prosperity.

The economic force that catapulted the once obscure little community into sudden prominence was the discovery on Drayton Valley's doorstep in June 1953 of Alberta's famed Pembina Oil Field. The discovery hit Drayton Valley's sleepy rural economy with the impact of a pile-driver and just four years later, on February 1, 1957, the settlement established by pioneer loggers was incorporated as a town.

With good reason, and officially, Drayton Valley has been christened "The Oil Capital of the World" Pembina is Canada's largest and most prolific oil field, and its more than 900 square miles makes it the world's largest oil field in area. Drayton Valley's fortuitous location in the Pembina field established it firmly as the trading centre and supply centre of the massive petroleum industry that came into existence to develop the field. Since the discovery well was brought in by Socony Vacuum Exploration Ltd., more than $700 million has been expended by oil companies in exploration and development work.

Drayton Valley's economic ties with the oil industry are quickly apparent to the eyes of a visitor to the town. The business community bears ample evidence of the town's proximity to oil. The story is also told in the Drayton Valley section of the Alberta telephone directory. About 60 firm names are listed who are associated with the oil business. Some as the branch operations of oil companies others dealing in oil field supplies of one kind or another, and those who serve the industry with technical and engineering assistance.

Oil production, however, is not Drayton Valley's only source of income. The town overlooking the North Saskatchewan River 87 miles southwest of Edmonton, is also the trading centre of a mixed farming area. Lumber camps and bush work constituted the main economic support of the hamlet until about 1945. Cleared timber areas onened the way to agricultural activity and gradually timber operations were superseded by farming as the main industry. And mixed farming remained the principal industry until oil was discovered in 1953.

Drayton Valley's modern, prospering, growing business area is a busy market place, supplying the needs of a town population of approximately 4,000 and a trading area population of about 20,000. Farm income and oil payroll keep the cash registers working briskly and the town's economy robust and expansive.

The oil payroll, in all operations of the Pembina field, amounts to a hefty $4 million annually. Drayton Valley has about 800 wage earners and a large percentage of these workers are employed in the oil industry or in enterprises associated with the industry. Another 500 or more oil field employees live outside Drayton Valley but do their trading in the town. The town itself is a major employer with a payroll in excess of $100,000.

The start of the oil boom in 1953 activated development trends which continue to be reflected in new housing, commercial and industrial construction. Permit values for the 12 months of 1963 were at the level of $632,000. During the first 10 months of 1964 the building total reached a plateau of $750,000. Commercial construction amounted to $100,000 and industrial building had the same value. A new subdivision filling up has a development value of $450,000.

New services and additions to existing commercial operations continue to generate growth in the business community. During the past year three automobile dealers opened or expanded business operations in the town. A photography and photographic supply shop is another recent business addition. Simpson-Sears opened a mail order office in August. A new Esso garage building was erected and a number of oil supply companies have expanded warehouse and office space. Proof of the business potential in Drayton Valley is the sales record chalked up by a McLeod Store which opened in December, 1962. Within four months it was the top McLeod dealer in Alberta and is still operating with a volume well above the average.

Town improvements are keeping up with commercial and residential growth. The 1964 program of capital spending will amount to about $370,000. Street paving will account for $170,000; water and sewer extensions, $70,000; a new sewage disposal plant, $41,500; curbs, gutters, and sidewalks, $34,000, and a storm sewer project, $27,600.

High school and public school facilities were all new construction within the past 10 years. Accommodation for handicrafts and home economics is a well-equipped facility at the high school level. Provision for education is a priority concern of the town. It has to be. It has a school population of approximately 1,500, and with the predominance of youthful age groups the average age of the populace works out to about 11 years. This makes for a community that is both youthful as a municipal entity and blessed with a young population — a high percentage of productive, wage-earning citizens and a large group training to enter production fields.

Recreational development has also received the attention of the town. One such project in the West Valley Park development where the town has spent about $10,000 on improvements. A variety of sports facilities are being provided at the park, including bowling, baseball and football. The Lions Club is participating in the work and cost of the development. Another amenity that has been operating for two seasons is the town's heated open swimming pool. The first year it was opened patronage totalled 42,000. Recreation in Drayton Valley gets excellent support from the town's very active service clubs, Elks, Rotary, Legion, and the Lions Club. Active in all areas of the town's community and business life is Drayton Valley's alert and aggressive Chamber of Commerce.

Lions Convention

Delegates from Lions Service clubs in nearly 200 communities in Montana, Alberta, and northern British Columbia will attend a District Convening in Edmonton next month.

The host clubs in the Alberta capital are preparing to receive more than one thousand club members and wives for the four day Convention beginning June 9th. Klondike costumes and activities, characteristic of the gold rush to the Yukon in 1898, will highlight the entertainment portion of the Convention.

The business sessions of the Convention will include a panel discussion on various club activities, re-arrangement of district boundaries and election of district officers. The chairman of this, the 39th Annual Convention, is Jim Knott, an Insurance Agent and member of the downtown Edmonton Lions Club.

Lions International was founded by a Chicago insurance agent, Melvin Jones in 1917 and has become the world's largest service club. There are more than 743,000 Lions in over 19 thousand clubs in 130 countries and geographical areas.

Lions clubs sponsor a wide range of community and international projects, including sight conservation and aid for the blind, housing for the aged, and youth exchange. The motto of Lions is "We Serve."

PADDERS ASSOC.

Entries for Canada's longest and richest canoe race continue to arrive from across Canada and the Central United States.

The White Water Canoe Race on the North Saskatchewan River is sponsored by the Alberta Paddlers Association. It starts at Rocky Mountain House, Alberta on July 9th and finishes up in Edmonton on July 11th. Overnight stops will be made at Drayton Valley and Devon.

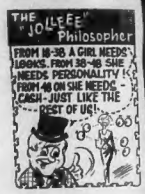
Prize money totals over $3,000 and the winning team will win the Labatt's Challenge Trophy.

Rocky Mountain House has two full days of celebrations planned featuring a four mile rubber dinghy race, a sourdough raft race, gold panning contest, fishing competitions, and big Sourdough Jamboree with all the old time dances.

Eighty miles down the North Saskatchewan the booming oil centre, Drayton Valley has a two day shindig planned with barbecues, a midway, moccasin dances, bingo, a pancake breakfast, tours of the oil fields, and dozens of other activities.

When the canoeists reach Devon another 73 miles down the river, they will find the town jumping with baseball and fastball tournaments, games, parachute jumping, a street dance, fireworks, Sunday morning will feature a pancake break fast and interdenominational Church service prior to the final lap of the Canoe Race into Edmonton where the big Klondike Days will be getting into full swing.

John Nikel, chairman of the Alberta Paddlers Associations, is delighted with the response o to this fun Labatt's Challenge Race. It already appears that the number of entries will have to limited. The Rocky Mountain House to Edmonton White Water Canoe Race is shaping up as one of Western Canada's major summer events. Entrants are urged to get their applications in now. Write to Ed Krsli, Secretary, Alberta Paddlers Association, P.O. Box 6253, South Edmonton, Alberta.



"We had a terrific game going ... then Billy's mother made us all go outdoors!"

"Where do we go from here, Mr. Mayor?"

Alberta's phenomenal expansion has led to the development of new townsites, has created planning problems for present towns, villages and municipalities. Intelligent long range planning to meet this expansion requires help of trained technicians. Because few of the small communities are in a position to retain their own planning staff, assistance is supplied either through the Planning Branch of the Department of Municipal Affairs or through the Regional Planning Commission.

The Department of Municipal Affairs encourages the orderly development of municipalities through the formation of Regional Planning Commissions, and pays 50% of the operating costs of these commissions. Technical assistance is provided on request to any municipality for problems ranging from road intersections to zoning by-laws. In 1964 all Alberta Regional Planning Commissions received 2,000 applications for sub-divisions, while the Provincial Planning office received over 1,000 applications.

DRAYTON VALLEY, A TOWN WITH A CITY IN ITS BRIGHT FUTURE.

Drayton Valley's importance as a trading centre is indicated by the sum and range of the town's commercial operations and professional services. In total, the business community has about 175 establishments of one kind or another serving the needs of the local and district populations. Eighteen firms are listed as producers or manufacturers. Nine companies appear in both retail and wholesale categories, and 33 are wholesalers only. Products and resources of the area include wheat, coarse grains, cattle, sheep, hogs, dairy products, poultry products, natural gas and oil.

In Drayton Valley's future is a proposed highway project which, when it gets the nod from federal and provincial authorities, could have a tremendous influence on the further economic development of the town and region.

The proposal is for a highway link that would connect Edmonton-Jasper Highway 16 with the Trans-Canada. The project calls for this connecting road to follow Highway 57 south through Drayton Valley, proceed across the Brazeau River to Nordegg, continue from Nordegg southwest to Saskatchewan River Crossing, go on through the Howse Pass to Donald Station where it would join the Trans-Canada and the traffic flow east and west.

This proposed Nordegg route is supported by the Drayton Valley and District Chamber of Commerce and the Central Alberta Chambers of Commerce. While it supports the Yellowhead Highway plan, the Edmonton Chamber is also a supporter of the Nordegg route link and favours earlier construction of the latter because of the shorter distances involved to build it and the savings it would effect in transportation costs of certain B.C. products moving to markets in the Prairies.

The broader, long-term benefits of the plan are of especial interest to Drayton Valley. The road would open up undeveloped regions of north central Alberta and provide access to large unexploited supplies of natural resources: timber, minerals and new oil and gas potential. It would also be a means to develop more land for agricultural purposes.

Tourism is another inviting prospect. The new road link would carry some part of the heavy volume of traffic moving east and west through the Rogers Pass. The natural scenic beauty of the area opened up, the hydro project on the Brazeau, and the attractions of the Pembina Oilfield, all would tend to invite the tourist to explore the new route via Drayton Valley, Nordegg, and the Howse Pass.

Drayton Valley, Oil Capital of the World, has come a long way since that day in 1953 when Socony Vacuum brought in the Pembina discovery well, and with the resources at hand and those yet to be harvested the town has every reason to look forward to new years of growth and expansion.

Timely rains of generally 1" or more have restored good moisture conditions. Seeding has been delayed but is well advanced and could be about completed with a week of favorable weather. Wheat averages about 80% seeded; Oats and Barley about 70%.

Rain of 1" to 2" has again stopped seeding operations. Seeding of wheat varies greatly throughout the area, being completed at some stations in the vicinity of Edmonton and just under in other localities. Wheat averages about 65% seeded, but only a small percentage of Oats and Barley has been sown.

Since the heavy rain of a week ago, warm spring weather has prevailed and seeding is now in full swing. Operations are well advanced at some stations and, with continued favorable weather, should go ahead rapidly throughout the district.

SUMMARY: The southern half of Alberta received timely rains during the past few days, restoring good moisture conditions. While seeding has been delayed, operations had been well advanced and will be completed with about a week of dry weather. The northern half of the province received 1" to 2" of rain, causing excessive moisture in some localities. In this area wheat is about 65% seeded, but only a small percentage of coarse grains has been sown, and dry weather is needed to allow completion of seeding. In the Peace River District, warm, dry weather has prevailed for a few days and seeding is now in full swing.

Following lunch with Mr. Finley the business meeting proceeded with M. Williams as chairman. We learned that our president will be leaving due to a transfer.

Copies of the by laws were available and handed out to those members present

M. Palmer, B. Orteux and B. Schoenroth attended the annual Nurses Convention, May 26, 27, 28 at the Jasper Park Lodge. Their reports of convention happenings will be on the agenda for June's meeting. The next meeting and the last until September will be June 9th in the Nurses Residence.

Modern etiquette

Q. When a dish is served which carries both a spoon and a fork, how do you help yourself to this dish?

A. Using your left hand, place the spoon under the food being served, and with your right hand use the fork placed on top of the food to guide a portion to your plate. Don't try to lift too much food at one time!

Q. When approaching a revolving door with a woman, does the man enter first so as to push the door for the woman, or should he allow her to precede him?

A. He allows the woman to go first and, in fact, he is better able to control the revolving door if she does precede him.

Q. Who pays for the dress of a young flower girl at a wedding?

A. Her parents.

Q. How can a host and hostess avoid touchy moments, such as arguments between guests which get out of hand?

A. This is the most important reason for choosing guests carefully. If you know a person who has strong and unreasonable prejudices, don't invite him. A good host or hostess must be able to foresee any such difficulties and avoid them.

Q. Is it good manners to examine the various items on a cafeteria counter before selecting a certain one?

A. This is the customer's privilege. He should not, however, finger the various saucers, or be suspicious about selecting a dish that seems to contain a larger portion than the others.

Q. Is it really proper or in good taste to decorate a dinner table with candles, even if they are not to be lighted?

A. Yes; candles are always correct on the dinner table.

Take time to laugh - - it is music of the soul.

Sermons in Trees

Out of the ground made the Lord God to grow every tree that is pleasant to the sight, and good for food—Genesis 2:9.

By Rev. R. Anglin Johnson

At this gracious season when all the world about us is being revived in new life and beauty, it is fitting that thought should be given to one of the greatest spectacles of Nature—namely the trees. The miracle of their renewed life and extravagant beauty is evident to every one.

Joyce Kilmer, the soldier who gave his life in World War I was enraptured by this when he wrote:

I think that I shall never see
A poem lovely as a tree.

A tree whose hungry mouth is prest
Against the earth's sweet flowing breast;

A tree that looks at God all day,
And lifts her leafy arms to pray;

A tree that may in summer wear
A nest of robins in her hair;

Upon whose bosom snow has lain;
Who intimately lives with rain.

Poems are made by fools like me,
But only God can make a tree.

Man could no more create a tree than create a dewdrop, or a sunbeam, or a butterfly. It is a sermon full of mystery and of wonder.

Small wonder that trees have been regarded as objects of religious veneration. The worship of the oak by the ancient Druids, the fig tree by the Romans, the groves of the Semites are examples of different civilizations. The awe-inspiring effect of trees in a dense wood may well have suggested the pattern for the interior roofing of many splendid cathedrals. Architects have reproduced in stone the designs which have impressed them in Nature.

In one of Portugal's timber forests there is posted this notice to the wayfarer; "Ye who pass by and would raise your hand against me, hearken ere you harm me. I am the heat of your hearth, your friendly shade from the summer sun, I am the beam that holds your house, the board of your table, the bed on which you lie, and the timber that builds your boat. I am the door of your homestead, the wood of your cradle and the handle of your hoe. I am the bread of kindness and the flower of beauty. Listen to my prayer, and harm me not."

Well has it been said, there is not a traffic of the human race, not an art or a science, which doesn't issue from the heart of a tree. Where would the instruments of our orchestras be without the varied woods, the implements of agriculture, and such products as sugar, charcoal, rubber, turpentine and tar. Our newspapers, books and magazines, our homes and churches with all their equipment and carvings have their origin in trees. The list is almost endless.

Scientists tell us that trees have a large influence on a country's climate and fertility. The destruction of vast forests in bygone ages has accounted for many of the deserts of the world. Fruitlessness and famine have been the tragic results.

Trees of the Bible

Many are the references to various trees in the Sacred Word, beginning with a particular tree chosen to portray the "Fall" of mankind. They play a part in the immortal narratives of Elijah, Jonah and Zaccheus. They are the subject of striking images in Bible literature. The righteous man is said to be "like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in his season." A prophet referring to the return of the captive Jews from exile describes all Nature sharing their joy. "The mountains and the hills shall break before you into singing, and all the trees of the field shall clap their hands."

It was by a tree that our Lord symbolized His promised indwelling in the soul of His people—"I am the vine, ye are the branches", and it was upon a tree that the redemption of the world was achieved. Christians were to be known by their fruits even as every good tree bringeth forth good fruit. And the last glowing chapter of Holy Word pictures the Tree of Life with its fruits in the Heavenly World, with the leaves of the tree for the healing of the nations.

Thus honored by God to perform important services in the economy of Nature, and honored again in the unique symbolism they bear to the divine teachings of the Christian faith. Trees have a meaningful place in sacred history. Their deep rootedness, their marvellous construction and growth, their strength and fruitfulness, and withal their beauty of form, give them a lasting place among the marvels of creation.

It was Brother Lawrence, who wrote from a monastery kitchen the classic "The Practice of the Presence of God", who said he owed his conversion to a tree he observed from a window. Transformed from its winter's deadness into its springtime glory of leaves and flowers and later fruit, he reasoned: "What God can do for that bare and seemingly lifeless tree He can do for me." He so committed himself that a spiritual miracle came which has made his name and example known to the world. Let us hear the sermons the trees are preaching.

THE BIBLE TODAY

The Radio School of the Bible (Ecole Radio Bibilque), which was founded at the beginning of this year, has taken over the Bible correspondence courses formerly handled by the North Africa Mission. These courses are now going out in English, French and Arabic.

The Radio School of the Bible was a limited broadcast program of fifteen minutes per week. Its directors hope that by summer 1965 a steady radio program will be in operation supporting the present Bible courses by correspondence.

"It is safe to say that ninety-nine per cent of the possible number of listeners would never hear the good news of salvation otherwise," reports the administrative secretary of the Mission. "We trust that Christians everywhere will take the challenge upon their hearts."

Through Faith

By Helen Harrington

Into the winter overcast
That will not let hope and gladness out,
Into the coldness that seals fast
With hard distrust and doubt,
Faith thrusts a fierce arm and sets
Clouds of despair and doubt askew,
And finds a small chink for joy, and lets
The sunshine of God break through!

However, time the camera man got out there the bear had come down from the tree and taken off for the tall timber, also bein muttering to himself: "Crazy humans, . . . You can have them. I don't want them"

Mrs Barbara Casey almost fainted, when she opened a package of Belvidere cigarettes and found a ticket there in supposedly entitling her to be the winner of a Fort Calaxie 500 XL convertible.

In addition to that she was to win $150. per month for ten years....TAX-FREE!

BUT... she says the company refused to honour the ticket, alleging that it was from an OLD package (1 1/2 years)

She told her troubles to the Editor off the North Hill News in Calgary who has a reputation. (like "Eye-opener Bob of Calgary fame) of being afraid of nothing.

The North Hill News went to bat for Barbara, and a lawyer took her case, so maybe she'll drive up one day in a brand-new Ford Galaxie 500 XL Convertible.

The cigarette company in question maintains their head office in Calgary.

Oh, yes, although the company felt under no obligation to provide the Ford as it they DID offer her a free package of cigarettes, which was later expanded to a carton of the same brand.

---

Mrs Casey says that after all Calgary, though a city, is much like a small hick town

In one day, she had fifteen phone calls from well-wishers in Calgary.

They will go over by boat. Says "Grannie" Waugh "Oh, I love to travel by boat..."

Last weeks paper said, "Town Plans Dust Laying Program" Did they HAVE TO lay the dust with a three day rain?

In case they did they were fairly successful for a few days, at least. Over 1 and one half inches of rain fell on our poor soaked fields, bringing all seeding activities to a halt, probably for the rest of the season.

Farmers' Union of Alberta

FULL DISCLOSURE OF CONSUMER CREDIT INTEREST RATES:

The Alberta Government deserves commendation for its intention to proceed with a plan to require grantors to disclose annual interest rates on loans and sale agreements.

This statement was issued today on behalf of the Farmers' Union of Alberta by its President, Paul Babey.

"We support truth in lending legislation because we are of the opinion that granting of credit is a service, and certain by consumers should have the opportunity to know what this service is going to cost," Mr. Babey stated.

He continued, "The myth that interest rate disclosure will be a detriment to business is not a sound argument against this legislation, because it must be obvious that a consumer unable to afford the fully disclosed cost of credit would have been in same position if there had been no such law. We must conclude that business which would be deterred by such a full disclosure law should not transpire in any event."

DEVILED EGGS FOR A DELICIOUS PICNIC

HERB OMELET FOR A SUPERB HOME LUNCH

Now that picnic time is here again, why not take deviled eggs on your next outing? They're easy to do, delicious to eat, and can be prepared the day before. Just cover and store in the refrigerator until you're ready to pack them in the picnic basket.

Or if you're planning a small lunch, at which you'd like to serve something extra special, why not try a herb omelet? You can give it the extra special" touch by placing crisp bacon slices on top of the omelet just before serving.

DEVILED EGGS
12 hard boiled eggs
2 tbsp. finely chopped fresh onion or
2 tbsp. instant minced onion if your prefer
1/2 tsp. dry mustard
1 1/2 tsp. Oxo beef bouillon
2 tbsp. mayonnaise
Cut eggs in half lengthwise Remove yolks then mash. Combine with other ingredients. Season with salt and pepper. Beat until smooth. Fill a cookie press with yolk and refill egg whites.

HERB OMELET
2 tsp. butter
2 tsp. c finely chopped fresh onion
1/2 tsp. herb seasoning
2 eggs
2 tbsp. water
1 1/2 tsp. Oxo beef bouillon
Saute onion in melted butter. Add mixed herbs. Beat eggs with water and Oxo until foamy; mix in the onion. When pan is sizzling hot, add eggs and turn off heat. Let it cook slowly, shake the pan until eggs begin to set. When mixture is almost set (still slurpy) fold omelet in pan and roll into a hot serving dish. Serves 2.

Extra Tips
If you've decided to prepare the deviled eggs, here are a couple of extra tips to remember when you re getting them ready. The moment your eggs are hard- boiled, Removed them from the stove and put immediate ly into cold water. This prevents a dark ring from forming around the yolk and you can remove the shell without marring the smoothness of the egg white.

It's also wise, once your eggs have been put into cold water, to shell them out as soon as they re cool enough to handle.

If the herb omelet has been chosen, you'll probably get good results from the cooking pan of your choice. For perfect results, however, some of the best French chef's recommend that one pan in your kitchen be set aside for the exclusive preparation of omelets.

It should never be washed but should be cleaned with coarse salt and paper towels If any other kind of food is cooked in this pan, or if it is put in water for washing, it's highly probable that your next omelet will stick to it.

To keep your home baked bread fresh for as long as possible, wrap it in moisture-vapour-proof material and store it in the freezer. It will remain fresh and moist for several weeks. Reheating bread kept for several days also freshens it. Sesame seeds added to the bread crumb coating of chicken cutlets produce a delightful nutlike flavour that wins compliments for the cook. They give the same exciting fillip in the bread crumb topping for casseroles as well.

Enriched bread forms the base of many a delicious dessert and this recipe for bread doughnuts is a tasty example. You will need two eggs, one cup of milk, one teaspoon of grated orange rind, one half cup of fine cracker crumbs, twelve slices of enriched white bread and three tablespoons of butter. Beat the eggs, milk and grated orange rind together, place the cracker crumbs in a large plate, then cut the enriched white bread slices with a doughnut cutter. Dip the bread circles in the milk mixture and then in the cracker crumbs. Now, melt the butter in a skillet and pan fry the dipped bread circles over a medium, low heat... like French toast. Serve them with syrup, jam, jelly or preserves, or sprinkle them with brown sugar.

The first generating unit at Big Bend Station is now operating satisfactorily undergoing load runs. Rated at 180,000 K.W. and powered by a 218,000 h.p. Francis type turbine. It is the first of a multi-unit installation. The second generator, a larger unit (180,000 K.W.) is scheduled for commissioning in 1966.

The Brazeau Storage Dam, built for the Provincial Government, was first operated by the power company for the Government in the winter of 1962 for pollution alleviation and for industrial uses in the Edmonton metropolitan area. Cost of the Government storage dam is in the order of $14 million. In addition, the power company has invested almost $30 million in outlet works, canal and power house.

Under its agreement with the Provincial Government, the power company may purchase the government's dam when the power installation exceeds 500,000 K.W but in any case not later than 1971.

The co-operative venture has resulted in lower costs to the people of Alberta for the government's portion of the project, while not increasing costs to the power company's customers.

Primarily built as a peaking plant, Big Bend station operations provide an ideal complement to the base load supplies from the Company's Wabamun thermal station, 65 miles west of Edmonton.

Installations at Wabamun now totalling 332,000 K.W. include two, 66,000 K.W. and one 130,000 K.W. generators. Construction is presently proceeding for a 300,000 K.W. unit scheduled for 1967 commissioning. This 300 000 K.W. unit alone has sufficient capacity to supply power requirements of the whole City of Calgary.

The new unit will be coal-fired as are the 150,000 K.W. and one of the 66,000 K.W. units. The remaining 66,000 K.W. unit is powered by steam from a gas-fired boiler. With the commissioning of the 300,000 K.W. unit, consumption of coal from the Wabamun Strip Mine could total 3½ millions tons annually.

Future plans are heavy and heavy construction will meet the Company's anticipated load requirements for many years. Long range planning encompasses requirements studies of load size on the North Saskatchewan and Athabasca rivers studies are also being made to all economically available coal deposits in many parts of Alberta. Between plans presently on the drawing boards and studies under way the Company has ample assurance of hydro and low-cost steam power in Alberta rapidly growing requirements for the foreseeable future.

An abundance of fossil fuels in Alberta including known coal reserves in Canada and yet untapped hydro sources make Alberta a power abundant province well equipped to supply the rapidly increasing requirements of homes, farms and industry.

In 1910 he came west, to Athgrom Alberta, where he took up a homestead, and worked on the WC Ranch. He stayed in Athemount district for about eleven years. In 1922 he returned to Ontario where he worked in a market garden.

Then the west called him again and he went to Biggar, Saskatchewan in 1925, where he remained till 1934. In that space of time he was "hailed out, blown out, dried out and starved out" so the he was "hailed out, blown out, dried out and starved out" so the family thought it was time to leave for further west. They landed in Berrymore at the end of June 1934, after an eight week overland trip bringing along their horses and cattle. Arriving at Berrymore Mrs Martin filled on a homestead and Thomas went out to work. For the rest of the time, till he retired he worked out, with farming tandwiched in between. The Martins still farm the quarter section of land.

Mr Martin married the former Miss May Hendrickson at Ashmount in 1926. Mrs Martin was raised in Nebraska. They have four sons living, Donald, Allan and Gilbert, all farming in the district. One son died in 1953. A son, Jim works at Mechanic at Cowley. Three daughters are married and live in the district. The Martins have twenty-seven grandchildren

The Martins are members and good workers in the Pentecostal Holiness Church in Berrymore. This church is one of the oldest buildings in the district, having formerly been a schoolhouse.
